CALIFORNIA LAW PROHIBITS
WORKPLACE DISCRIMINATION AND HARASSMENT

The California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH) enforces laws that protect you from illegal discrimination and harassment in employment based on your actual or perceived:

• Ancestry
• Age (40 and above)
• Color
• Disability (physical and mental, including HIV and AIDS)
• Genetic information
• Gender, gender identity, or gender expression
• Marital status
• Medical condition (genetic characteristics, cancer or a record or history of cancer)
• Military or veteran status
• National origin (includes language use and possession of a driver’s license issued to persons unable prove their presence in the United States is authorized under federal law.)
• Race
• Religion (includes religious dress and grooming practices)
• Sex (includes pregnancy, childbirth, breastfeeding and/or related medical conditions)
• Sexual orientation

The California Fair Employment and Housing Act (Government Code sections 12900 through 12996) and its implementing regulations (California Code of Regulations, title 2, sections 11000 through 11141):

• Prohibit harassment of employees, applicants, unpaid interns, volunteers, and independent contractors by any persons and require employers to take all reasonable steps to prevent harassment. This includes a prohibition against sexual harassment, gender harassment, harassment based on pregnancy, childbirth, breastfeeding and/or related medical conditions, as well as harassment based on all other characteristics listed above.

• Require that all employers provide information to each of their employees on the nature, illegality, and legal remedies that apply to sexual harassment. Employers may either develop their own publications, which must meet standards set forth in California Government Code section 12950, or use a brochure from the DFEH.

• Require employers with 50 or more employees and all public entities to provide sexual harassment and abusive conduct prevention training for all supervisors.

• Prohibit employers from limiting or prohibiting the use of any language in any workplace unless justified by business necessity. The employer must notify employees of the language restriction and consequences for violation. Also prohibits employers from discriminating against an applicant or employee because he or she possesses a driver’s license issued to a person who is unable to prove his or her presence in the United States is authorized under federal law.

• Require employers to reasonably accommodate an employee, unpaid intern, or job applicant’s religious beliefs and practices, including the wearing or carrying of religious clothing, jewelry or artifacts, and hair styles, facial hair, or body hair, which are part of an individual’s observance of his or her religious beliefs.

• Require employers to reasonably accommodate employees or job applicants with a disability to enable them to perform the essential functions of a job.
• Permit job applicants, unpaid interns, volunteers, and employees to file complaints with the DFEH against an employer, employment agency, or labor union that fails to grant equal employment as required by law.

• Prohibit discrimination against any job applicant, unpaid intern, or employee in hiring, promotions, assignments, termination, or any term, condition, or privilege of employment.

• Require employers, employment agencies, and unions to preserve applications, personnel records, and employment referral records for a minimum of two years.

• Require employers to provide leaves of up to four months to employees disabled because of pregnancy, childbirth, or a related medical condition.

• Require an employer to provide reasonable accommodations requested by an employee, on the advice of her health care provider, related to her pregnancy, childbirth, or a related medical condition.

• Require employers of 50 or more persons to allow eligible employees to take up to 12 weeks leave in a 12-month period for the birth of a child; the placement of a child for adoption or foster care; for an employee’s own serious health condition; or to care for a parent, spouse, or child with a serious health condition. The law also requires employers to post a notice informing employees of their family and medical leave rights.

• Require employment agencies to serve all applicants equally, refuse discriminatory job orders, and prohibit employers and employment agencies from making discriminatory pre-hiring inquiries or publishing help-wanted advertisements that express a discriminatory hiring preference.

• Prohibit unions from discriminating in member admissions or dispatching members to jobs.

• Prohibit retaliation against a person who opposes, reports, or assists another person to oppose unlawful discrimination.

The law provides for remedies for individuals who experience prohibited discrimination or harassment in the workplace. These remedies include hiring, front pay, back pay, promotion, reinstatement, cease-and-desist orders, expert witness fees, reasonable attorney’s fees and costs, punitive damages, and emotional distress damages.

Job applicants, unpaid interns, and employees: If you believe you have experienced discrimination or harassment you may file a complaint with the DFEH.

Independent contractors and volunteers: If you believe you have been harassed, you may file a complaint with the DFEH.

Complaints must be filed within one year of the last act of discrimination/harassment or, for victims who are under the age of 18, not later than one year after the victim’s eighteenth birthday.
